ST PETERSBURG, Florida, March 28, 2020 (St. Petersburg Distillery) – – In response to the shortage of hand sanitizers in our community, St. Petersburg Distillery is stepping up to help. After receiving multiple calls from pharmacies, medical offices, hospitals, and other community groups, we are pleased to announce that we have shifted production and are utilizing our resources to help fill this community need.

St. Petersburg Distillery’s trained chemical engineers have taken guidance from the FDA and WHO for hand sanitizer production. Our distillery plan is to make single bottles that we will distribute to the community free of charge on a drive-up basis (timing and scheduling to come) and to local enforcement agencies, city offices, and our first responders. The distillery will also be producing 5-gallon drums to help meet the immediate need in community pharmacies, hospitals and medical offices.

It is important to St. Petersburg Distillery to take care of our business partners, as many of them are remaining open to serve the community. These include our local restaurants, hotels, and retail and grocery stores. We want to make sure these businesses continue to operate in a safe and sterile environment. With that in mind, we will be distributing hand sanitizer to those businesses as well.

Unfortunately, many of our favorite industry professionals are currently out of work with no immediate income. For this reason, we will be offering short-term, part-time positions at the distillery to help with packaging, labeling, and disbursement. We will be following all CDC guidelines regarding workplace safety, protective gear and public interaction.

Further communications about the distribution of our hand sanitizer are forthcoming. Follow St. Petersburg Distillery on Facebook and Website for more details regarding community disbursement at Angelo's Recycling - 855 28th St S, St. Petersburg, FL 33712 this Saturday March 28th.
